

LONDON VICTORY ENDS SUCCESSFUL DEBATING TOUR

McGill Sweeps Weekend Games

Sinclair, Gelineau Lead Fighting Reds Over Gaels, Blues

Toronto
By JIM ROBB
Led by Jack Gelineau, Reggie Sinclair, and Tommy Hale McGill's Senior puck squad climbed back into second place in the Intercollegiate loop over the week-end scoring a double win on their "suicide Road trip."

Friday night Dave Campbell's crew invaded Toronto and fought their way to a penalty studded six—two victory over the Blue team. Varsity outshot the Red, men by a thirty-eight to thirty-four margin, but brilliant work by Jack Gelineau in the McGill nets held Ace Bailey's crew to only two goals.

The tall boy's work between the pipes brought satisfaction to more than Montreal fans. Harry Cotton, Boston Bruin scout, whose team has Jack on their list was watching.

Reggie Flying
Big gun for the Campbell clan was Reggie Sinclair. Sparked by him the White line hit their stride getting five of the six goals. Sinclair picked up two with an assist, Hale the same and Robillard added the fifth.

Sinclair's first goal came on a break away with McGill short-handed in the second period. Later in the game Reg broke away twice only to be stopped by Toronto's goalie Paul Hutzulak.

His goal started the second period, the big one for the Hale-Sinclair-Robillard line. Both other members of the trio counted before the end of the frame. Hale scored the first goal after eight minutes and twenty-eight seconds of the first period on passes from Sinclair and Heron. Big Doug, who proved about as popular with the Queen city fans as the hydro shortage, came through again a few minutes later, on a play set up by Sanderson.

PENALTIES
Twenty-four penalties were handed out by the referees in the hard hitting encounter. The Reds drew fifteen of them, including two majors and a misconduct to Phil Henry. The majors came late in the third period as a hard game began to play on the players' nerves. Irish Jack Hennessy and Dave Hackett took the honours for the Reds.

Toronto's goals came early and late. The first one off the stick of Ecclestone in the first period and the last one with less than a minute to go from Henry. The last period saw Toronto put on a desperate effort to get back in the game. The Blues outshot Campbell's clan eighteen-eight Gelineau rising to the occasion behind a strong defence sparked by Gosselin.

The Henry-Parsons-Hackett line were in the thick of the defence especially in the penalty killing department.

Second Year to Hold Chinese Dinner Dance
"Why take her on a slow boat to China, when you can sail Shanghai her at the second year party tomorrow?" The party president Pangman is featuring a real Chinese dinner, straight from the Nan-King Cafe in Montreal's Chinatown, as well as dancing until one o'clock. Music will be provided during dinner, and the guest speaker will be Boyd Millen, Chairman of the Graduates' Society, well renowned for his wit and humour.

Following this there will be a general participation in a sing-song, and dancing to all the latest recordings.

The time is seven o'clock on Tuesday, the place is the Union's Chinese Ballroom. "This is your chance to support your year, and at the same time get a dollar's worth of entertainment for fifty cents. So let's all turn out and have a really good time."

C.C.F. CLUB
There will not be a meeting of the C.C.F. club today as the speaker is unable to attend. A meeting will be held next week at the same time.

Queen's

A tired McGill team had to come from behind a two goal deficit to defeat Queen's Saturday night in Kingston.

The game may have been costly to the Red team, both Tommy Hale and Doug Heron suffering injuries as results. Big Doug crashed into a goal post early in the first period, continuing the game with a badly bruised hip. (Doug was hurt, but you should have seen the goal post.) The extent of Hale's injury has not yet been determined. The doctor is afraid of a broken hand.

STARS
Sinclair and Gelineau again led the way for the Redmen. Reg with two goals and Jack with another brilliant performance in the nets. McGill was down two goals before they were warmed up. Murray scoring on passes from Mercer and Hews at the five minute mark and Robertson coming back two minutes later to score while Sanderson was in the penalty box.

Parsons finally broke through the Gaels defence, and the net-minding of Urie to score from a scramble on passes from Henry and Sanderson. A minute later, Sinclair tied it up from Robillard and Heron.

SCINTILLATING SINCLAIR
Reg got his fourth goal of the week-end for the winner coming around from behind the net, and scoring an unassisted effort. Later in the period Gosselin sent Sinclair away in the clear twice. Rough Reg was foiled by a couple of sterling saves by Urie.

The third period again brought Gelineau and the defence to the fore defensive action. Holding on to the one goal lead.

The reformed third line of Sanderson, Hayward and May showed a better style.

Led by "the battling blond" Charlie Sanderson with seven minutes the Reds took six of the eight penalties handed out. The Queen's team put up a hard fight and the McGill team tied from travel and the previous night's game were hard put to beat them.

Corn Flakes 'Breakfast Food Of Champions' as Western Wins

By MARCEL BALTZAN
Corn Flakes also must be the 'breakfast food of champions.' For on Friday night the boys from the Corn Flakes capital had more in reserve by the time the middle of the second half rolled around to speed up the game, get the break on Howie Ryan's McGill Redmen and pile up a 51-35 advantage to take the opening game in the 1948-49 CIAU basketball conference.

During the first half the Redmen were able to match the Western boys step for step but the ubiquitous George Wearing nabbed the majority of the rebounds off both backboards to give his mates possession of the ball most of the time. And in basketball, like in many other things, possession is nine-tenths of the law.

It gave the Metrasman control of the ball game. They used this control to the ultimate, manipulating the speed of play like an accordion. In the first half apparently they thought it to their advantage to keep the pace slow. This they did but on leaving the floor at half time with only a 20-18 lead they increased the tempo to almost race-horse pitch.

The Mustangs began to pull away from the Redmen about the ten minute mark in the final period. The increasing differential came about gradually, almost imperceptibly with the desperate situation of the Redmen not becoming obvious until there was only five minutes to play.

In this short interval Western Rained in ten points. It seemed that Bill Ford was the arrow that pierced the Redmen's hearts. The all-star football guard came on fresh in the second half and pro-

EXECUTIVE OF WOMEN'S DEBATING

A&S 'Gen Nite' Interfaculty Debates, Tours Will Be Held Wednesday

A professional "Gen Night" which will be of interest to all McGill students is being planned for Wednesday evening at eight p.m. in the Union Ballroom. A Third Year Arts and Science Dance, free for all those who attend the "Gen Night," will follow.

Teaching, Journalism, Personnel Administration and Advertising will be included among the topics. Dr. E. C. Webster, co-chairman of the Department of Psychology, will be chairman of the "Gen Night."

Dr. Webster is well qualified to act as a counsellor to the students because of his previous experience in vocational guidance, administering tests of this nature to many a forlorn and undecided undergraduate.

Doug Riddle will be in charge of the "Gen Night" and will introduce Dr. Webster to the students, who will then introduce the main speakers.

Peter MacRitchie, City Editor of The Montreal Gazette, will speak on Journalism. R. R. Buchanan, Director of Personnel for Consolidated Paper, will cover the field of Personnel Administration. P.A.G. Clark will point out the opportu-

Also on the programme of the Women's Debating Society is a trip to Barnard College in Massachusetts where two McGill co-eds will be sent to debate on both sides of the resolution that "The United States should enter into a military alliance with the Western European Nations." A third student will accompany the debaters as a discussion speaker on the topic, "How best to protect Civil Liberties."

Two debates will be held out at Dawson College this term. All girls interested in participating in either of both of these debates are asked to contact Rita Weissler or Hazel O'Brien.

Another item on the women's debating agenda is a Middlebury-Vermont home and home debate. One McGill girl will go to Middlebury, to Vermont, then back to McGill, debating each time on the resolution that "Socialism is the only solution towards World Peace."

Meanwhile a mixed team will remain at home to debate on the same topic.

Vassar College in Poughkeepsie, New York, has challenged McGill to an all-girl debate to take place here at McGill. At present the executives of the two societies are trying to arrange a suitable date and topic for the event.

The Men's Debating Society have stated that they will allow a girl to take part in their radio time but they have stipulated that she must be an exceptional debater. They have specifically asked Rita Weissler to do this debate herself, but as yet no final plans have been formed.

During the first term at McGill, the Women's Debating Union participated in numerous inter-faculty debates and the McGill Tournament. In the Vermont Debating Tournament they were represented by Rita Weissler who, together with the men's team, made a favorable showing for McGill, the only Canadian university taking part in this tournament.

This term the Women's Debating Society has gained recognition in the eyes of the Women's Union. Due to this show of enthusiasm and success, the budget of the women debaters has been considerably enlarged to permit them to carry out the extensive programme being planned.

Decision Favors McGill 51-7 As 12 Day Tour Terminates

Rugger Talent Helps Make Party Success

Operating on the principle that although autumn-sports are at present out of season, parties never are, the McGill rugger players got together with their Westmont rivals for a "wee do" in the Union Grillroom on Friday evening. The party was considered a great success by those present, and the spirits of both teams seem to have been at their highest.

The feature of the vning was the presentation of an engraved claret-lighter to Professor Kierstead, McGill coach, from the Red and White Players. He accepted the gift from Dave Floyer, McGill Captain, with the words: "This is completely unexpected and all the nicer for that. Thank you all very much."

"A description of the remainder of the evening might be of interest to the reader. We feel sure, however, that those who attended the party will wish to treasure the memory of it to themselves, so we refrain from robbing them of the privacy which they will desire for so precious a recollection. Suffice it to say that talent appeared in almost unlimited quantities to make the evening a memorable one for all concerned," said a member of the team.

Baltic Students Will Remain at Pinneberg

Pinneberg, Germany.—(Unipress)—Military authorities in the British zone of Germany have cancelled an order for the Baltic University in this German village to disband. Assurance has been given to the Baltic students that they will be able to continue their studies until Sept. 30 of this year.

The 700 Lithuanian, Latvian and Estonian students in the "D.P. university in exile" went on strike when the military authorities suddenly ordered the university to disband within 72 hours. The students and professors were further ordered to move to the D.P. camp at Eutin, a small village southeast of Kiel.

Many friends of the Baltic university in Europe and North America requested British authorities to rescind the disbandment order.

A. & S. Concert Series Tickets Still On Sale

The second series of concerts sponsored jointly by the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society and L'Association des Concerts Classiques de Montreal, reminds interested McGill students that tickets are still on sale at the Willis and Co. Ltd., 1220 St. Catherine Street West, at special reduced rates.

This series includes a choice between the world famous Viennese coloratura soprano, Erna Sack, and the renowned American violinist, Albert Spaulding. Miss Sack is opening her Canadian tour on January 28 at His Majesty's Theatre. She will give additional performances on February 19 and 23, and March 5, at Plateau Hall. Mr. Spaulding is making his Canadian debut on April 1 at Plateau Hall. The series also includes the brilliant twenty-three year old American violinist, Albert Brusi- lau who is giving a performance on March 4 at His Majesty's Theatre. This will be followed by the performance of the Swedish tenor, Jussi Boerling, on March 21 at Plateau Hall.

Those interested are asked to apply directly to Mme. Glen at the Willis and Co., 1220 St. Catherine Street West, where blank coupons will be issued for the purchase of the specially reduced tickets. The series entitles its subscribers to the first or second concert series and to $1.00 tickets to the Artur Rubinstein concert at Plateau Hall on March 31, instead of the usual $3.50 tickets. There are 150 of these tickets for McGill students, and they can be obtained from Mme. Glen at the Willis and Co. Ltd., 1220 St. Catherine Street West.

Oxford

The McGill Debating Society team completed their undefeated tour of the British Isles with a victory over the University of London on Friday. The three debaters Sydney Phillips, Ted Hugesson, and Isadore Rosenfeld remained undefeated in competition against universities at Glasgow, Birmingham, Bristol and London. At Oxford University the respective teams exchanged members so that neither University was declared the winner.

(Special to the McGill Daily)

London, England, Jan. 23.—The three Canadian debaters from McGill University completed their twelve day tour of the British Isles with a victory over the University of London last Friday. The vote awarded the decision to the McGill team by a score of 51-7. Among the capacity crowd present were members of the McGill Graduate Society.

"Resolved that an East-West Balance of Power is the Only Practical Solution to the Problem of World Peace," was the topic under debate. The McGillians Ted Hugesson, Isadore Rosenfeld, and Sydney Phillips successfully took a negative stand on the resolution.

Isadore Rosenfeld and Sydney Phillips left Croydon airport Sunday evening via TCA and will arrive at Dorval airport outside of Montreal about noon Monday. Ted Hugesson is expected to leave a little later in the week.

Direct information reaching The Daily from Oxford University indicates that neither of the competing Universities was declared winner in the debate between McGill and Oxford held last Thursday evening.

A press service report from England had previously stated that McGill was the winner.

Following the custom of the Oxford Debating Union, the contesting members each exchanged one speaker for the first international debate held between a Canadian team and the Oxfordians in over a decade. Sydney Phillips of McGill teamed with Jackson and Mildon to form the affirmative side of the resolution while Ted Hugesson and Isadore Rosenfeld had Kittinger of Oxford as the third member of the negative team.

The topic which was "Resolved that a Union of Western Europe Will Strengthen Rather Than Weaken the Commonwealth" was debated in Parliamentary style before an audience of six hundred. The actual affair apparently was held in a rather gay atmosphere with all speakers indulging in humorous sallies during the course of the evening. The House vote gave the decision to the affirmative by a count of 221-197.

The President of the Union described the Canadian visitors as the best speakers to come to Oxford in recent years. He also suggested that the visit of the McGill Debating Society team should be commemorated by an affiliation of the two Debating Societies, providing for the extension of their respective facilities and hospitality to the visitors from the other group.

A party for the three orators was given by Mr. and Mrs. Jim Paterson, both former McGillians. Jim Paterson is a Rhodes Scholar from McGill. The gathering was attended by several Rhodes Scholars and other Canadians studying in England.

CALLING ALL WOMEN

Students may not have direct control over the disposition of the tuition fees they pay to their university, but they do have a "say" in the manner in which the fees they pay to students' organizations shall be handled.

It is in recognition of this fact that the Women's Union executive has called a general meeting of its members, to take place today at 4.15 p.m. in the R.V.C. Common Room.

The executive has the right—the duty, in fact—to formulate its own stand on a question affecting all the members of the Women's Union, but it would be overstepping its bounds, were action to be taken on this stand without the consent of the members—especially in this case, where the money concerned was originally saved for the building of a Women's Union building. So the final decision concerning the payment of the McGill Union of $3,600 plus one dollar per woman student per year, by the Women's Union, will be made by the girls present at this afternoon's meeting.

The issue to be decided is a vital one, not only because of the amount of money involved, but because it concerns the status of co-eds in relation to the McGill Union. If the payment is withheld, the McGill Union will, in all probability, hang a "For Men Only" sign on its door. Such a movement would make a drastic change in campus life at McGill; our much-harangued "college spirit" would very likely slip down a few notches.

Representatives of the men's Union executive will be present at today's meeting to present their side of the problem; it is hoped that a member of the women's executive in power at the time this money was set aside for its original purpose, will be present to explain the opposing view. The current Women's Union executive, while it does not consider the proposed payment a legal debt—the men never having demanded payment previously—does recognize the moral obligation in the matter.

With the disposition of their funds and their welcome at the McGill Union at stake, the attendance of every member of the Women's Union who can possibly be present at the meeting is imperative.

All co-eds are urged to make a special effort to be there, and once there, to make their opinions known.

A short story

The Telephone Rang

by John H. Cosgrove

I don't quite know what you'd call her. You'd hardly be able to call her mad, but she was. You could not say, either, she had been in love, or that she was in love, for although it was partially both, it was greater than love. It must have been because of her outlook on life, her past, her looming future.

You see . . . she had met him in a cheap bar, and a dirty bar, in the lower section of New York City. She had been slumming with friends, and wandering off, more than a bit drunk herself, she had met him. In her alcoholic state, she said things, she did things, that later she would rejoice at and be bitter with. And she kept telling herself, and others, it was only because of sympathy, for pity for him, that he had stayed with her for so long, that she had done what she did for him. It was only because he was such a forgotten and hopeless alcoholic, and she had not planned to fall in love, so in love that she would never again be as before, never again be happy.

It was indeed unfortunate that he had already married some five years ago. It was more unfortunate that he did not want any separation or divorce, that he loved his wife, and yet that he also loved her. And it was because of his love for her that at times he was so unhappy with his own wife. So it was through correspondence that they found their means of satiation. He when he felt blue or down-in-the-dumps; she practically every day. She wondered why she had been beaten by HER, and wondered if it was love she had for him?

But she knew it was love, because like a rare and precious gem, it grew in its value through time, glowing serenely. To explain this feeling, however, it would be necessary to explain the whole background of their friendship, all of their previous relations, and it is impossible to do so. Perhaps this letter, it makes no difference now, will be clearer to you than I could be. She wrote it to him, if the date is correct, shortly after leaving me from a theater date we had together.

"Darling, though we are separated by miles, space and time, I am writing you again in reply to your last letter. You and your wife are probably sitting by a fireside which I selfishly feel is mine. But if you are unhappy, as your letter says, I am glad.

"My darling, I am jealous when I read your letters and when I think of you in an unendurable way. The thought of you, bitter and unbearable, being with someone else. I rejoice so much when you are unhappy, and I later reproach myself. I hate her because you are not always happy, but hate her even more when you are happy.

"But now you want sympathy, and I'm afraid I cannot give it. Maybe I have all the understanding and intelligence you credit me with, because I know just what causes your moroseness, and just how you feel. But I cannot give you sympathy. You say you are in a torment. Well, what can I do? Whenever you've cried on my shoulder before, I've said partly you were at fault, that you probably rather like being an injured party. I've told you you ought to forgive yourself and your injuries and try to understand others for a change. But you shuddered from that solution. It was too easy, but at the same time it was too difficult.

"Darling, what price anything material in an existence so short and crowded as ours?

"Too often we allow ourselves to suffer without real cause. This does not mean that we can ignore pain and the loss of loved ones. But most of us experience only half a dozen of these greater misfortunes, and can learn, or at least try to learn, to face them with fortitude. It does not mean that our hunger is more bearable because other people are hungrier. It does mean that happiness requires a sense of proportion, and perspective, that we magnify our own troubles and minimize those about us chiefly because we lack imagination.

"Here I am talking to you, when because of you I've no longer got that proportion, that perspective, that imagination—that steady feeling that I thought would always be there, something like the Rock of Gibraltar.

"I want you to realize that I love you; that you will always find in me a devoted soul, no matter what society may do or say regarding you, or us.

"I hope that this letter will find you in a better state of mind than when you last wrote to me. Remember that I am here for you and you alone. I love you more than anyone, and value you more than anyone or anything in the world."

She had signed it "Love, —" She had waited for four days and had hoped that in that time the letter would have had a reply in some form or another. She had not had any, however. Her blood ran hotly, and her spine tingled with racing excitement, as she thought of him, and yet . . . no word. She knew now that she had lost. That same evening, late, she put the cold muzzle of the revolver in her mouth and felt the cool metal against her hot lips; the cool mother-of-pearl handle in her slippery wet hand. She put her finger on the trigger and relaxed in her chair, ready to pull. The telephone rang, louder, it seemed, and longer than usual. She sat there, motionless for a moment, then got up and walked to it, picked it up answering "Hello." "Hello, there!" came the reply. A muffled shot . . .

Freshmen Sponsor Dance, Skating Party Tonight

As the first event in Arts and Science Week, first year is sponsoring a skating party and dance tonight. The McTavish street rinks will be open for skating at 7:00 p.m., and students are reminded that athletics books must be shown for admittance. There will be dancing and entertainment in the Union from 9 to 12 p.m., for which the admission is 25 cents. A fashion show will be staged starring several of the more curvaceous members of the football team. Refreshments will be served.

Hollywood . . . Boiled in Oil

During the last few months some consternation prevailed in Hollywood as a consequence of the fact that old and experienced financiers of films have the inclination to retire from business. The profits are far less certain than they were formerly, and the fast rise of television conjures fast wrinkles on their foreheads. The consequence of the fatigue of the old money-lenders is the rise of new financiers from the oil fields of Texas. And Hollywood's extensive collection of schemers takes ready possession of these oil kings: it holds out hope that they are excellent impresarios—the glaring lights, the girls, the display and the publicity take care of the rest.

As such it could be very exciting; but the best talents of Hollywood, who already were beaten over the head quite heavily by the commission for un-American activities which interpreted communism into every scenario with a human or slightly social touch, are anticipating the new situation trembling with fear.

The well known millionaire Howard Hughes has now bought the R.K.O. studios. Formerly he had done some amateur work in films like Scarface, Hell's Angels, and Front Page; they were made with his financial aid. But Hughes has now become, instead of a rich quaint with a sort of hobby for films, one of the principal persons of the film industry. And they are very sad in Hollywood that the first studio which has been lost to Texas is the R.K.O. company; for as long as this company was under the direction of Dore Schary, it was one of the most enterprising of the great film factories. Schary is gone now to Metro Goldwyn Mayer, but before his departure two of his films were in preparation which could have been of great importance. The first one was called, The Boy With the Green Hair, the second one, Battle-ground. Both films had an anti-war tendency. The first one had just been finished when Hughes bought the studio. The film was not released, and indoors started a war to prevent that the changes Hughes wanted to bring about would be carried out. That battle is still undecided. The other film dedicated to the G.I.'s will not be made at all. Hughes has expressed on several occasions his dislike of pictures which are called "think pictures", and that dislike has not disappeared.

Behind Hughes another millionaire from Texas appeared in Hollywood, Glenn McCarthy, who as the story goes possessed 150 million dollars. In 1932 he still worked a pump monkey for fifteen dollars a week. At the moment he disposes, except of his oil wells, of 15 million of investments in the chemical industry, of a bank, of a radio station, of a couple of magazines, of great interests in farms, of a hotel of 25 million, and of a real estate firm. He has like Hughes an aversion of "think pictures." He too in turn has been followed by a few other millionaires from Texas.

The American reporter Carey McWilliams who devotes an article in the Nation on this invasion of oil people into Hollywood, finds it quite credible that these oil magnates become attracted by the film. Oil as well as films effect very strongly the gambling instinct. The producer of a film may be able to gain a pile of money in one stroke, or experience that he has drilled a dry hole. The men from Texas at any rate have a wonderful time in Hollywood; they play around with fabulous amounts of money, and as good business men they have an open eye for plausible loss entries which may work out very favourably to the fiscus.

The old professionals in the industry face the new invasion quite philosophically. They have experienced everything that man can experience, and with the cynicism which in the atmosphere of the most cynical industry of the world does not take long to mature, they are inclined to suppose that they still will exist, even long after the men from Texas will have spent their money.—Albert.

a week of cinema

Apologies to Mr. French

Dear Mr. French,
Thank you very much for your invaluable suggestions. Unfortunately, this week's offerings in the way of movies are of a rather poor quality, which accounts for the "pitiful remnant remarks" I have left "to stand for each film."

Nevertheless, I hope that the weeks to come will bring to our city at least a few pictures worth reviewing, in which case I will take great pleasure in satisfying your wants.

JOHNNY BELINDA: Jane Wyman's great performance in the role of a deaf-mute Cape Breton girl and an above-average supporting cast make this film downtown Montreal's best offering this week. (In its second week at the Princess.)

RED RIVER: One of the best Westerns seen in a long while. John Wayne and Montgomery Clift head the cast and a terrific cattle drive. (In its fourth week at the Orpheum.)

BERLIN EXPRESS: Another of Hollywood's failures to tackle the problem of post-war Germany. With Merle Oberon, Robert Ryan et al. (In its second week at the Imperial.)

THE THREE MUSKETEERS: Lacks cactus to be a Western. Lana Turner in seventeenth century French "décolleté" does her bit of acting for the sex-hungry crowds. (Loew's.)

LIFE WITH FATHER: A bunch of red-heads thrown together in a dull screen version of Clarence Day's "8-year laugh champion of the stage." (In its second week at the Palace.)

ONE SUNDAY AFTERNOON: Strictly for those who are not yet tired of the "Gay Nineties." (Capitol.)

He keeps muttering something about a nine o'clock lecture.

McGill Swimmers Lose to RPI and Defeat Brooklyn

Beat Flatbush 57-14 And Turn In Superb Effort Against RPI

By RUBE BRESSLER

New York, N.Y.—On Friday night in Troy the Red Mermen were halted for the first time by a great R.P.I. team. The score was 47-28. It was a heartbreaking loss for the McGill boys, who in succumbing for the first time swam to their best times ever. Coach Curran's squad was edged on four important occasions by less than a single second. This cost the team 22 points and the victory.

WE WUZ ROBBED!

The opening 300 yard medley relay saw both squads hitting the same time but the judges awarding the win to R.P.I. The McGill time was amazingly good. The relay team was comprised of Mingie, Kopin and Eisenman. In the 220 and 440 Adin Merrow churning on his back like a windmill raced Cooper, ace freestyle man of R.P.I. crawl man by .6 seconds in the 220 and .1 seconds in the 400. Merrow's 440 time of 5:20.6 was of world record proportions. Greg Titus took third in this event. The 400 yard freestyle relay team of Quale-Rainbow-Christie-Fullerton swam an inspired race and hit great time but they too went down to defeat by a fraction of a second.

The McGill swimmers, in what must be considered their finest performance of the year, won the 50 yard freestyle, 100 yard backstroke and the 200 yard breaststroke events. Young Graham Rainbow beat Haas of R.I. in a thrilling 50-yard sprint. Rainbow was pushed to his best effort ever and rose to the occasion by posting the best time of his career. Haas of R.P.I. ranks at the very top of U.S. sprint performers. Peter Mingle outswam the field to capture the 100 yard backstroke but he too was pressed to an excellent effort by the opposition. The 200 yard breaststroke was won by McGill's "Red seahorse" Irwin Kopin. The 220 pound butterfly giant surged to a close victory over Sheffield of R.P.I. and hit the finest time of his life.

DEFEAT NO DISGRACE

The McGill swimmers were highly regarded by the engineers coach Pop Graham, who said his present R.P.I. team ranks with his all time best. Coach Vic Curran was highly satisfied with his squad's showing and felt that a defeat was not too great a price to pay for so great an improvement in the team times.

OVERPOWER BROOKLYN

The McGill swimming team hit New York City on Saturday night in a most devastating manner. The "red mermen" overwhelmed a Brooklyn Polytech squad by the top-heavy score of 57-14. It was the first time that a McGill athletic aggregation had been victorious in the big city.

BIG SWEEP

From the opening gun the States' team was completely outclassed. Coach Curran's squad swept every event with the exception of the dive in which Peter Mingle placed second.

The medley relay of Mingie-Kopin-Christie went to an easy win. Greg Titus was victorious in the 220- and 440-yard freestyle events. Dick Fullerton copped the 50-yard freestyle race and Elliott Young the 100. All the wins were quite decisive.

RECORD FOR MERROW

The backstroke event was the States' distance of 150 yards (Canadian distance is 100 yards), and Adin Merrow sped to a spectacular victory over this distance. He cracked the metropolitan record in his performance.

In the 200-yard breast-stroke event, Irwin Kopin proved himself at home in N.Y.C. by again exceeding his previous best performances, in a fast victory. He surged forward all the way with his powerful butterfly stroke, and won easily.

The 400-yard relay of Rainbow-Christie - Quale - Fullerton copped by a 100 yards the meet's finale.

The McGill squad was hailed by the officials and the tech. coach as one of the finest visiting teams in years. The boys showed championship resiliency in rebounding from the ironic loss to R.P.I. the previous night. Here in New York, while not approaching their Troy performance, the team was "all victorious."

The squad moves to Washington, D.C., for a Monday engagement with Howard University.

The States' invasion has definitely shown McGill in possession of a truly fine swimming team. This is on the basis of fierce competition. The challenge was met by this team which may give Toronto in February, what no McGill team has in 12 years a sound beating.

SPEED BOY

ADIN MERROW, Coach Vic Curran's white-haired boy who in the past year under McGill colours has broken both Canadian and American records, the latest one being the metropolitan backstroke.

Milt Orr's Boxers Win Three Bouts From Toronto Team

By ART PERLMAN

Friday night, Athletics Night II, the boxing Redmen came through with three victories in six bouts against Varsity's highly touted. The bouts were held in the small gym with a capacity crowd in attendance.

In the opener, Chuck Neil, fighting in the 165 lb. class for McGill, lost a decision to Patrick of the University of Toronto. There were no knockdowns in this fight. The second match featured Ron Forgas, at 135 lb., who punched his way to victory by a decision.

bringing McGill her first win of the evening. His opponent was Dave Geary of the Blue and White squad, who was intercollegiate champion two years ago. This bout was a proof of the rapid improvement which Forgas has shown since the beginning of the season.

MACLEOD WINS AGAIN

Swiftly moving Doug MacLeod won his second victory of the season by defeating Bob Couzeiro in a hard-fought battle. Boxing in the 147 lb. class for McGill, MacLeod used a potent left jab to advantage in taking the decision.

The fourth bout was won for McGill by Bob McAllister, in the 160 lb. class, who took the decision over Red Wells of Varsity with his powerful right hand punch. McAllister had to take an eight count in the second round because by professional rules, which were used in all the matches, if a fighter touches the canvas without slipping or falling accidentally, he is liable to disqualification unless he takes an 8-count.

Bill Nichols, who was on the United States Olympic Boxing Team last year, lost by a decision to Scott of Toronto. Nichols, a McGill senior A footballer, fought in the 175 lb. class although he was fourteen lbs. lighter than his opponent who weighed 178 lbs.

John Heney, of McGill, lost a very close decision in the welter-weight class to Leprich of Toronto, who he had previously beaten in intercollegiate competition. Heney, intercollegiate champ for two years, in the 140 lb. class, has a very strong left which he uses to advantage, but it failed to bring him the victory.

Orr Pleased

Coach Milt Orr was exceptionally pleased with the performances of MacLeod, McAllister, and Forgas, who were all in very good condition and who followed the instructions of their coach. Forgas took the play away from the highly-rated former intercollegiate champ Dave Geary, and won by a fair margin. Orr thought that McAllister displayed terrific power in defeating tough Red Wells of Varsity. He feels that with the showing of these three newcomers and with the added experience of Heney and Nichols, there is the nucleus of a strong club. Orr was originally scheduled to fight but the Toronto squad had only six men, therefore, he didn't fight, although this was to be his last fight for McGill. Orr has been intercollegiate champ in the 147 lb. division for the last two years.

McGill's boxing team is coached by Ken Strew. Judges for the boxing events, were H. Shulman, R. Bouchard, and A. Malo. The time-keeper was Bert Green. Lou Fisher ably carried out his job as referee. All of the bouts consisted of three two minute rounds.

Results:

135 lbs: Ron Forgas, McGill, defeated Dave Geary, Varsity. Decision.

147 lbs: Doug MacLeod, McGill, defeated Bob Couzeiro, Varsity. Decision; Leprich, Varsity, defeated Heney, McGill. Decision.

160 lbs: Bob McAllister, McGill, defeated Red Wells, Varsity. Decision.

165 lbs: C. Patrick, Varsity, defeated Chuck Neil, McGill. Decision.

175 lbs: Scott, Varsity, defeated Bill Nichols, McGill. Decision.

eight bouts, gaining 14 points against the New Englanders' 22.

Koval Wins

The best bout of the evening was that in which Wally Koval, heavyweight, pinned Austin Tobin in 40 seconds of the first round to take the match in what is believed to be a match of record time. The other two McGill wins were made by Harry Biewald and Gus Hem-

Figuratively Speaking with CY LEWIS

BIG UPSET

McGill's underdog Redmen pulled a hockey upset Friday night when they took the Toronto Varsity Blues to a tune of 6-2. On the next night they hit Kingston to do battle with the Golden Gaels of Queens and completed their sweep of the week-end by coming from behind to edge out the Presbyterians 3-2. Rollicking Reggie Sinclair McGill's veteran winger has himself a great time over the week-end as he connected for 4 goals and 1 assist to give him a total of 5 points, to top the point getters for the two games. This gives Reggie 8 points and puts him into a first place tie with Tommy Hale. Coach Dave Campbell's other top producer who garnered 2 goals and 1 assist over the week-end.

These two games also saw big Doug Heron break into the scoring columns with 1 goal and 2 assists. Also a newcomer to the ranks of the goalgetters was Rocky Robillard of football fame who netted a goal and assisted on another for 2 points.

Ryan's Raiders Raided

On the basketball front Howie Ryan's Red Hoopsters did not fare too well against the Western invaders. Their shooting was off and they only made 15 out of 45 for 40 per cent. This would seem to indicate a pretty fair shooting average, but this is not so considering that they only took 45 shots which is the lowest total they have had all season. Their foul shot shooting was, as they only potted 5 out of their 14 free tosses for 36 per cent.

The scorers were led by the diminutive Myer Bloom and the amiable Dave Caldwell with 10 points apiece. Bobby Duford was not far behind with 7. Follows the senior scoring list.

Senior Basketball Scoring

GP	FG	FT	Pts.
Bloom	9	37	71
Wilson	9	22	65
Caldwell	9	24	64
Duford	8	26	60
Fraser	9	24	56
Atkin	4	7	22
Godel	9	10	21
Sharpe	9	9	21
Berger	9	8	18
Endman	9	7	16
Flewelling	9	4	10

Bobby Duford the blond speedster on the senior hoop squad wears number seven, scored seven points against Western and has been nursing a seven point per game scoring average. Perhaps friend Robert should change to number twenty and reap the benefits therefrom, namely twenty points in a game and a twenty point average . . . Lanky Bud Fraser had an off night on Friday and couldn't sink anything for love or money. The tall man missed a total of 9 shots in the first half of the game along with a couple of free throws . . . The McGill hockey squad seems to have been revitalized over the week-end but they still need to take all their remaining games to force a first place tie with U. of M. unless of course the Carabins should suffer a sharp reversal of form and lose a couple of games and thus throw the race wide open.

Bad man of the hockey team is Phil Henry whose misconduct penalty at Toronto put him in this dubious post of honor over Boston Dave Hackett whose affinity for fistfuffs on the ice surfaces has already given him three majors and a total 21 minutes in the sin bin . . . Next week-end will see a full schedule for the Redmen of both squads as the puck team entertain Queens on the Forum freeze Friday night while the hoopsters play hosts to the Gaels' basketball representation on Saturday night.

Clarkson Forges Ahead

Suddenly in the third period, coach Hanson's crew came to life, and it made this observer wonder whether they had been given an injection of ephedrine in between periods. At 3:23, Roy Hellyer put Clarkson ahead 2-0 on a beautiful passing play with wingman Norie Masterson. The Braves came right back, with Lafontaine Millar, and Knubley coming in alone on Gerry Turner, only to be turned back once again by his superb performance.

A few minutes later, Mac White made use of the non-existent centre ice line, another obsolete rule which handicapped the Braves, to take a forward pass and sail in alone on Sheldon, who proved equal to the occasion.

From this point on, the Green and White squad from Potsdam, took over command of the play, and led by Murray Beach, Norie Masterson, Mac White, and Hewey Hewitson, pressed on the McGill goals. Their efforts were rewarded, for at 16:39 of that stanza, Masterson put the disc into the McGill nets while Sheldon and defenceman Kimmery were lying flat on their backs. At this point, the play reversed once again, and the Braves began their final thrust on the Clarkson cage. The

Dartmouth, Toronto Beat Squash Squad

Led by their number one man, Thomas Ringe, Jr., the Dartmouth squash breezed to an overwhelming victory over the Red and White squashmen at Sir Arthur Currie Memorial on Friday night.

In the most exciting and enjoyable game . . . from a spectators' point of view . . . McGill's number one man, Ham Quain, lost a heart-breaking set to Thomas Ringe in a series that went the limit of five games.

After falling behind two games to one, Thomas Ringe surged back to tie, and then to beat Quain in two long, and gruelling matches to take the set, 3-2.

In the remaining matches, McGill defeated Measures of McGill, 3-1, Simel, of Dartmouth, downed Goodal, 3-0, Van Raalte defeated Haller, of McGill, 3-1, Pearce, of McGill, defeated Cameron of Dartmouth, 3-0, Irving, of Dartmouth, downed Sheldon, 3-1, Hulgbert defeated Digby, 3-0, R. Quain downed Kurr, 3-0, and Stahl defeated Atkin, 3-1.

Toronto's squash squad displayed a all-round superior brand of play to down the McGill Redmen 6 matches to 1 in the Currie Gymnasium last Saturday. The brilliant playing of Camie Howard proved to be the principle stumbling block for the McGill team.

Howard defeated the number one man and captain of the McGill team Ham Quain in the feature match. This was the best played set of the morning. Both players displayed a variety of shots which they used to advantage. However, Howard's greater experience enabled him to capitalize more fully on his scoring opportunities to win the best of 15-8, 16-17, 15-13, 15-7.

Mike Measures saved the McGill team from complete defeat. He played an orthodox, keeping the

Clarkson Plumbers Defeat Intermediate Hockey Team

By MEL POLLACK

Warren Chippendale's Intermediate hockey Braves dropped a hectic and closely contested hockey game to the Clarkson Plumbers before a capacity crowd here in Potsdam Saturday night as the Green and White crew eked out a 3-1 victory over the Redmen from Montreal.

Twelve hundred spectators cheered themselves hoarse while the two teams raced up and down the ice time after time in tireless and spectacular efforts, which were made even more difficult by the pools of water and the slosh on the ice.

GOOD GOALING

Chippendale's Braves opened the game with drive after drive on the Clarkson goal, only to be foiled by the outstanding net-minding of Gerry Turner in the Plumber's cage, and the prevalent slush on the ice. Throughout practically the entire first stanza, the Redmen, led by diminutive Charlie Lafontaine, Gene Robillard, Arn Taylor, George O'Neill and the two Murphys, dominated the play.

At the 17-minute mark, rear-guard Gene Robillard was given the gate for what was supposedly high-sticking, and coach Bill Hanson's Plumbers immediately turned on the pressure, only to be frustrated by the fine saves of "Sive" Sheldon in the Red nets.

SECOND PERIOD

The second period opened with both teams playing cautious hockey and waiting for the breaks, realizing that on the slushy ice one break might decide the game. But, after a few minutes the boys seemed to forget about any breaks, and went back to the thrilling, wide open hockey that had dominated the initial stanza.

Finally, at 15:16 of the second period, defenceman Ken Brown came through to slap his own rebound past Hunt "the Sive" Shel-

Jack Griffin Takes Skiing

Jack Griffin took top honors in both downhill and slalom events of the McGill interfaculty ski race held at St. Sauveur yesterday. The diminutive Commerce student negotiated the Redbirds downhill trail in 35.6 seconds and went on to win the afternoon's slalom event on Hill 71 with a driving run of 30.6 secs. John Turner Bone of Engineering 4 was second best among the men as he tied Griffin in the downhill and placed second in the slalom. Joanne Hewson won the coeds downhill race while Rosemary Shultz led the girls in the flag jaunt. Blanketed by fresh powder snow the Redbirds trail remained in perfect condition under the skills of some 58 male and 13 female competitors. The slalom set by ski coach Vic Allen down the pitch of Hill 71, didn't fare so well and was rutted and icy for all but the first few runners.

Complete results of the races are to be posted on the notice boards of the Arts Building and RVC. The following is a summary of the best results.

U.B.C. President Praises I.S.S. Scholarship Plan For European Students

Service of Canada will launch its annual campaign during the first week of February, the national office has announced. The objective of the campaign has been set at $65,000.00.

In addition to a relief program, I.S.S. has included "reconstruction scholarships" in its 1949 program. These scholarships include both D.P. and other European students. The D.P. scholarship plan will bring to Canada one D.P. student for every 2,000 students in Canada. These students will be provided with an opportunity to study for at least one year in a Canadian university and to make a home and start life anew in Canada.

The European Reconstruction Scholarship plan will bring to Canada one European student other than D.P. for every 2,000 students in Canada. These students will be pledged to return after one year in Canada to the country from which they came.

Value to Canada
Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia and also president of the Canadian Committee of I.S.S., declared that the scholarship program was an effective way to promote understanding. "If we believe in our system of government I think it is necessary that we try to make and keep as much of the world as possible democratic," he declared. "We can do this by explaining and demonstrating how we function as a democracy to the people of Europe. The very exchange of people complete with ideas and customs is as valuable Toronto — International Student to Canadians as it is to Europeans," he added.

I.S.S. plans to send $3,200.00 worth of textbooks and mimeographing materials to the universities of Athens and Salonika in Greece.

To assist refugee students in Paris, I.S.S. has been allocated $3,500 for books and other badly needed materials.

Another $5,500.00 has been earmarked for a student hostel in Bombay, India.

It is expected that drives will be conducted on most campuses across Canada during the first two weeks in February, but the drive at Queen's is already under way. The Canadian Federation of Catholic Universities will conduct a joint campaign with I.S.S. at the universities of Montreal, Laval and Ottawa in March.

ball out of the centre of the court to win over Varsity's Jim Hilborn, 15-7, 15-9, 15-18, 15-12.

Big Don Atkin playing in the number two slot lost an extremely close five game match to Jim Biddell of Toronto, 3-15, 15-11, 15-10, 12-15, 15-12.

In the remaining matches, J. Roy, Toronto defeated P. Haller, 8-15, 10-15, 18-15, 15-12, 15-11. Ed Roth, Toronto defeated Dick Pierce, McGill, 16-15, 15-13, 12-15, 15-5. Ken Lane, Toronto, defeated Skip Sheldon, McGill, 18-17, 15-13, 15-12.

In a few of the matches the McGill players seemed hampered by a lack of conditioning.

Tom Ringe, the leading Dartmouth player completely outplayed in the first game came back to win the next three successive games to defeat Howard of Toronto, 10-15, 17-16, 15-9, 15-11. J. Roy of Toronto playing in No. 4 position was the only Torontonians to win a match against Dartmouth, defeating N. McGeam, 15-12, 15-8, 14-15, 15-12.

D. Kerr, Dartmouth defeated J. Biddell, Toronto.

J. Stahl, Dartmouth defeated J. Hilborn, Toronto.

J. Van Raelte defeated Ed Roth, McGill.

D. Cameron, Dartmouth defeated K. Cane, Toronto.

P. Sinch, Dartmouth defeated B. Puddy, Toronto.

Final results:
Dartmouth, 6; Toronto, 1.
Dartmouth, 7; McGill, 2.
Toronto, 6; McGill, 1.

Redmen scrambled all over goaler Gerry Turner, and finally at the 19 minute mark of the third period. Red Quain succeeded in beating Turner, after taking a beautiful pass from "Iron Man" Taylor, to wind up the scoring and the game.

Before the game, elections were held and Jack Millar, who led the McGill senior squad in scoring for the last two years and who for some mysterious reasons has resigned from the senior squad this year, was elected captain, with Gene Robillard and Murphy as assistants.

McGill Union. The total amount of money collected from the men however, has never been sufficient to meet the running expenses of the establishment; is there any wonder why, as we have stated before, the McGill Union is gradually becoming less and less attractive to the greater number of students at McGill? No monies can ever be set aside to improve the facilities of the Union or to allocate some decent and suitable powder rooms for the women.

On the other hand, while each women contributes $3.50 to their own Union (the same amount that the men contribute to the McGill Union) and while the fixed yearly expenses for the rental charge and maintenance of their small common room at R.V.C. only amounts to some four or five hundred dollars, the Women's Union has now quite naturally accumulated a surplus of some eight thousand dollars. The time has now come when the men students on this campus have a right to demand a complete reorganization of the financial relationship of the two Unions.

Since its very beginning, the women's Union could always afford to spend monies on free dinners, free tea-parties for its members, and it could always afford to give substantial amounts of money to the needy clubs and societies on this campus; we have no objections to that, the executive members of the Women's Union had to try to spend all their money somehow, but when we consider that the Executive of the McGill Union, on the other hand could never even suggest the sponsoring of a free "Coke" party for the men, there must be at least an apparent need to study the problem of the reallocation of funds.

The McGill Union must continue to be, at all costs, a joint Union; but it seems fair for us to suggest that the men students must be given a fair deal and that the women students must be willing to bear some financial responsibilities. If the battle cry of the American Revolution was "No taxation without Representation," the men students on this campus, in trying to solve the Problem of the Union, have a right to demand that their be no representation without taxation.

Corn Flakes—P. 1

Thomas of Western drew first blood, capitalizing on a free throw. He added two more baskets from the floor while Bloom replied for McGill, giving Western a 5-2 lead at the five-minute point.

Caldwell and Bloom collaborated to give McGill a 9-8 lead before four minutes had elapsed. This was the only time during the whole evening when the Redmen had a lead. But it was short-lived as Western assumed command to an 18-10 lead at the fifteen-minute mark.

McGill in the persons of Caldwell, Bloom and Duford came back to run the score to 18-19 for Western. Bloom's shot for his third basket was in the air as the whistle to end the half went. But the referees called a personal foul against him for charging after he made the shot. Wearing sunk it to make the score 18-20 for Western at the half.

Second Half

Western began to speed up the play in the second half but the Redmen matched them basket for basket until the eight-minute mark. The score stood at 28-30 for Western. But at that point the Redmen fell apart both offensively and defensively.

Ford began to work the pass and cut and the Redmen began to accumulate personal fouls. All this resulted in Western assuming a 41-29 lead at the fifteen-minute point, and to go on relatively unmolested to pile up a final total of 51.

The game opened up in the last two minutes, with the Redmen getting 6 points to wind up their total of 35. Both Bloom and Fraser were expelled in this period for committing five personal fouls. Both received tremendous ovations when they left the floor. For Fraser it was the first time that he had left the ball game all night.

Final score: Western 51, McGill 35.
